Walk-in clinic proposed

Minden Hospital may close

by Andrew Milne

The Minden hospital may close at the end of September.

The hospital administration made the announcement September 15, explaining that budget restraints and an acute shortage of doctors available to staff the emergency ward make the closure necessary.

Technically, the decision, a recommended by the administration's finance committee, isn't final yet. The executive committee has yet to approve the measure. However, at a meeting of the full St. Joseph's Hospital board September 5, there was a strong indication that whatever the recommendation of the finance committee, it would be approved.

Meeting Friday morning, the finance committee recommended that a walk-in clinic be provided at the hospital and that it operate from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., seven days a week. The emergency department would close.

The in-patient service was closed earlier this year.

Reacting to the dramatic change in the status of the facility from a hospital to a clinic, various local bodies — including the Acting Health Services Board and the municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden have moved to petition the Ministry of Health (MOH) to intervene. (see story below)

The future of the Minden facility has been in question for some time now. Like many rural Ontario communities, Minden has been having some difficulty attracting and keeping doctors.

The chronic shortage in qualified MDs assumed crisis proportions in mid-April, when the last full-time general practitioner available to staff the hospital, Dr. Anthony Holliday-Rhodes, left the community unexpectedly, citing personal reasons.

His departure left only two doctors with hospital privileges in the region, and those doctors only practice in Minden part-time.

St. Joseph's Hospital of Peterborough, the parent hospital to the Minden facility, responded at the time by closing the in-patient ward and hiring doctors from outside the area to staff the hospital's emergency department.

That practice however has proven to be prohibitively expensive. Now, halfway into their fiscal year, St. Joseph's reports they have already spent three quarters of the Minden facility's $1.3 million annual budget. Continuing to run the emergency department, even for as little as twelve hours a day, they say, would incur a projected $200,000 deficit.

Aggravating the situation, the two remaining physicians in the community left at the beginning of September, when their contracts with the local clinic expired.

Foster Loucks executive director of the Minden facility recommended to St. Joseph's board that the hospital scale back emergency hours in Minden to 16 hours a day, from 24, to help ease the fi-

Anthon, AHSB ask province to intervene

by Andrew Milne

Community reaction to the proposed closure of the Minden emergency department has been swift.

■ The Acting Health Service Board (AHSB), anticipating service reductions, moved September 13 to petition the Ontario government to intervene, at least until they could take over management of the facility.

■ The municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden on September 18 requested Ontario Minister of Health James Wilson to give the matter his personal attention.

■ Anson, Hindon and Minden on September 14, in concert with the Community Committee for Physicians (CCP), petitioned the administration of Minden's parent hospital, St. Joseph's of Peterborough, to consider the impact of their decision on Minden's recent and growing initiatives to attract doctors to the community.

■ Victoria-Haliburton MPP Chris Hodgson said he was "disappointed and concerned" about the development and had also spoken to the health minister earlier in the month and that he had indicated that health services in the county should not be drastically altered until the AHSB have an opportunity to implement its health care plan for the county.

■ Reeves from the four townships in the northern portion of Victoria County have also expressed their concern. All four have drafted letters to the Ministry of Health seeking assurances the services will not be altered until the AHSB has had an opportunity to deal with the situation.

The AHSB is expected to take over the facility in April. Board members expressed concern that should the hospital's service be reduced it would greatly complicate the transition to local ownership.

The hospital is currently administered by a parent hospital, St. Joseph's of Peterborough. St. Joseph's announced September 15 that its finance committee is recommending the emergency ward be closed altogether, leaving only an eight hour a day walk-in clinic operating in the building. The facility would not be used by the ambulance service, and the nursing/administration staff on the site would be reduced by approximately three quarters, from 22 full time equivalent positions to five.

The main reason for the reduction, says acting director of Minden Hospital Foster Loucks, is the cost of maintaining the hospital under the current arrangement.

Loucks also noted that the issue of taking money from hospital budgets to top up doctors' salaries — a measure which has proved prohibitively expen-nancial crisis. He described himself as "disappointed and concerned" about the turn of events.

Said Loucks, "I really think the need of this community goes well beyond having a walk-in clinic. I guess what I have to emphasize is it's a matter of trying to prevent a deficit that would be measured in terms of $200,000 or $300,000... St. Joseph's is taking the position that we can't sanction that. We have to offer a program which is in the range of the resources."

Loucks also said he wasn't entirely sure Ontario's Ministry of Health (MOH) would permit St. Joseph's to take so drastic an action.

Normally when hospitals are closed the MOH and the District Health Council are consulted. St. Joseph's has yet to do that regarding the proposed change in service reduction.

The District Health Council is a regional body created to represent community interests and offer advice to the government in matters related to health care.

The question, says Loucks, is whether the action recommended will be seen as being a closure by the ministry, or seen as serious enough a change in the level of service to merit their involvement and require public consultation.

On the other hand, he says, St. Joseph's does have a mandate to run their facilities within their operating budget, and could reasonably take the position that reducing the service in this manner is the only way they can continue to do so.

Loucks has previously stated that a major difficulty in running services in the hospital less than 16 hours a day is that the short shifts will make it difficult to find physicians to staff it. While there was some thought that it would be difficult to entice a doctor to come to the hospital for an eight hour shift, at least one member of the current group staffing the hospital has indicated that while the shorter shift would not be to his liking, he would be willing to continue providing service at the Minden facility. Those comments were made before the finance committee recommended to change the status of the hospital to a clinic.

In the community, the reaction has been one of serious concern.

The hospital is currently part of the MOH's 'rationalisation' process, meant to reduce health care costs throughout the province. As part of that process, hospital beds have been closed, services have been reduced and "Many of them are entirely dependent on this income... We're talking about a lot of young families here."

some hospitals have been amalgamated with neighbouring facilities.

The Acting Health Services Board (AHSB) was created over a year and a half ago to, among other responsibilities, take over administration of both the Minden and nearby Haliburton hospitals.

The AHSB has petitioned the MOH to provide special funding for the interim, so St. Joseph's doesn't have to close the hospital. They have taken that position, says AHSB chair Paul Heffer, because they feel closing the facility would greatly complicate the transition process. The staff layoffs, and the resulting trauma in the community, he says, would be particularly problematic.

Under the service reduction plan just proposed, the staff complement at the hospital would be reduced, from approximately 22 full time equivalents, to 5.

All staff in both unions at the facility — the Ontario Nursing Association (ONA) and the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) have already received lay-off notices. The hospital administration had issued them earlier in the summer when it became clear some service reductions would soon be necessary, but had stressed that some of the notices would probably be revoked when it became clear what services could be maintained. The ONA notices are effective for the end of September, while CUPE workers can be let go as early as the end of November.

Minden CUPE representative Gwen Hewitt says the prospect of being laid off is "very frightening" for most of the staff.

"Many of them," she says, "are entirely dependent on this income. Many of them have husbands who are only seasonally employed. We're talking about a lot of young families here. And finding work in this area — especially if they want to stay in health care — is just about impossible."

sive in Minden — will eventually have to be addressed throughout the hospital system, including in Haliburton, where it is also done.

What the AHSB will do with the Minden facility when it does take it over is fairly certain. In a resolution passed by the board in December of 1994, a plan to consolidate the in-patient services at the Haliburton Hospital was endorsed by the board and later by the ministry. That plan also calls for, among other features, the maintenance of a 24 hour emergency service in Minden. The board is presently in the middle of a needs study of health services related to the two county hospitals.

The plan calls for emergency services to be moved from the current site just off Highway 35, to the nearby Hyland Crest long term facility. It is expected that consolidation of common services such as maintenance, laundry and kitchen services and sharing of staff resources with the long term care facility would generate savings for both facilities.

"Although we have no direct control over the decisions being made," said Heffer, "the board has a very strong vested interest in the services at our facilities... It is my feeling that we may need to take a stand on what our position will be with regard to those changes."

The board shortly thereafter backed its chairman's words and asked Loucks to draft a letter to the Ministry of Health (MOH) to request that they intervene.

The petition was to be very specific, asking the ministry to provide special funds to keep the Minden hospital operating at least at present levels until the AHSB could review its new information and make a decision on the services they would be providing in the county.

Reeve Jeanne Anthon on behalf of the townships of Anson, Hindon, and Minden; and Jack Brezina on behalf of the Community Committee for Physicians, wrote a joint letter to the finance and executive committees of St. Joseph's expressing concern that now is a particularly difficult time for Minden to have its hospital service reduced.

The Lions Club of Minden recently purchased the former Dawson clinic next door to the hospital. The Lions and the CCP are currently in communications with more than 10 doctors who have indicated an interest in coming to the Minden area to practice.

CCP members seem to feel there is some possibility their efforts may shortly pay off, alleviating to some extent, the crisis the hospital currently finds itself in with respect to recruiting doctors for emergency ward shifts. Furthermore, if the ward closes now, it may harm their efforts to attract doctors.

Brezina said he was extremely disappointed with the finance committee's proposal. He was however, somewhat hopeful that the MOH would intervene.

He noted that provincial premier Mike Harris had promised during the provincial by-election that the "Haliburton model" of rural health care, in which decisions about how care is to be delivered are made by the community itself, would be respected. Brezina also said conversations with Victoria Haliburton MPP Chris Hodgson since the proposed reduction was announced, left him cautiously optimistic that the government would honour that promise and move to protect, for the interim, the services now offered at the Minden facility.

The petition has requested that the facility's emergency ward be left operating at least 16 hours a day.

The AHSB has also discussed the ramifications of service reductions if physicians cannot be recruited physicians, and seems to concur it is a serious concern.

The September 18 letter to Wilson calls for his immediate attention, notes that the economic impact of the job loss on the local area would be substantial, and calls for the provincial government to honour its commitment to maintain urgent health care services in Minden.

CHACE contest helps promote reading

CHACE place will be holding a reading contest for young readers.

Lisa Heels, supervisor of the Minden facility, says the contest is designed to promote imagination, improved literacy, and enthusiasm for reading among beginning readers.

"It's also to promote awareness of the centre," says Heels. "A lot of people don't seem to realize we're here and available to them."

The CHACE resource centres in Minden and Haliburton are open to any and all caregivers, but are oriented towards young children from preschool to early primary school levels. They're open from 10 am to 3 pm Monday to Friday. Heels describes the centres as "a place to drop in and meet other parents and children... We're really here to support caregivers and parents in caring for their children."

The Readerosaurus contest is open to children ages 18 months to six years who are members of CHACE's toy lending library. Prizes include stickers and book-marks, and all participants can receive a certificate for their effort at a special ceremony planned for September 27, at 11 a.m.

CHACE is also having guest readers in at the Minden centre. Anson, Hindon and Minden reeve Jeanne Anthon and librarian Bev Wood have been special guests so far. Councillor Jerry Rome will read September 20.

Highland dancers return from Scotland

by Andrew Milne

They danced for eight hours a day, days at a time. They walked everywhere. They hardly understood a word said to them through the thick brogue native to the region.

But they had fun.

The three highland dancers are back from Scotland.

Cheri Rivard, Amy Rosenberg, and Breanne Mansfield competed at an all-Ontario event in Georgetown, Ontario to qualify for the world championships of highland dancing — the Cowal Highland Games in Dunoon. The three travelled to Scotland August 16, staying in Glasgow. They also attended the Commonwealth games in Glasgow, and the Bute games in Rosyth.

So — did they win?

Rivard laughs.

"No. The groups were huge," she says. "But we danced well."

The dances are Scottish tradition — some of them originated as war dances centuries ago. Since then the form has followed Scottish emigrants to countries around the world, including, naturally, Canada. At the Cowal games, everyone gets back together again.

The schedule was exhausting — constant seminars and constant competitions — a highland dancing boot camp.

Says Mansfield, "We danced two competitions, one right after the other, Saturday and Sunday. And we're not used to doing that. We danced Saturday, and danced really well, but then Sunday all our muscles were hurting."

They also got very used to travelling by train — and to walking. Scotland, a small, closely settled country well-served by rail transportation, leaves one little choice.

The sore feet were worth it, however, they say. They saw the Edinburgh Tattoo, a pageant on Scottish history; visited countless castles (though Rivard says once you've seen one castle you've seen them all); saw the countryside, which they say was "very pretty".

The majority of dancers, interestingly, were from Ontario. And one member of the Georgetown group with whom they travelled — Megan Allen of Georgetown, did place in one dance.

And yes, they have stories. Rivard, who has been dancing 15 years now, was dancing with the adult groups. The woman dancing immediately before her had a little too much to drink the night before. Towards the end of the sword dance, one is expected to bow.

So she bowed. And was sick all over the stage.

But highland dancers are a hardy lot. "She finished the dance," says Rivard.

The dancers wish to thank all those who helped them get to the games — everyone who helped with the car wash, the Legions of Minden and Haliburton, the Rotary Club from Minden, the Women's Teachers' Federation, the Scottish Country Dancers from Haliburton, and the Highland dancing Association.

Looking for community groups interested in taking part

Syrup producer sees sweet potential for spring festival

by Andrew Milne

Tom Dawson says he wants to make his annual MapleFest a much bigger event this year. And he's looking for help from local businesses and community groups to help make it happen.

Dawson runs Wintergreen Maple Syrup and Pancake Barn, near Gelert on County Road One. His commercial retail operation is modelled on similar businesses in Quebec. He taps the trees, makes the syrup, and runs a rustic restaurant-like eatery on the premises where customers can get pancakes and other traditional foods, served with maple syrup which has been made right there.

In the boom season for maple syrup producers — the early spring, when the sap is running — Quebec syrup producers typically host major big events and attractions, with entertainment, food, and tours of their operations. People often travel from outside the province to visit the sugar shacks. The visits are often made on the weekend and involve overnight stays, purchases of food, gift items, and of course maple syrup.

Dawson would like to see the same thing happen here. He has coordinated two relatively modest pilot events in the last two seasons, and says they've gone fairly well.

He thinks there is significant potential here for bringing tourism revenue into the region.

"In Quebec in the spring," says Dawson, "you're talking about a major flow of people. They tour the area by bus, go out for sleigh rides, and they eat and eat and eat. There's lots of entertainment too. Now none of the syrup producers around here other than me are really set up to provide food, and that's where the rest of the community comes in. We want people to travel from one location to another. They would visit a sugar bush, for example, stop for lunch at a church, then roll down the road in the afternoon to see another sugar bush. In the evening there could be a dance. What we're eventually hoping to do is publish a map with all the syrup producers and event locations indicated, along with descriptions of the various activities associated with the event."

He's planning to hold the event from March 30 to April 7, between Palm Sunday such as easter egg hunts and puppet shows.

The Chamber of Commerce has already agreed to coordinate publicity for the event.

Chamber manager Brian Dean says the timing of the event makes it especially promising for the Haliburton region. Each spring, he notes, the area experiences a lull in tourism. The melting snow signals an end to snowmobiling and cross-country skiing. "There is usually a quite significant slowdown," he says. "This could really help."

Dean is also enthusiastic about the event's potential for generating spin-off tourism, and the benefits associated with introducing people to the area through an event like a maple fest."

"What we've noticed over the past year or so," says Dean, "especially when you work the front counter at the tourist information office in Minden, is that everyone walks in and asks what do you do around here. Where can I go? We want to become known as a place where you can come and do things. And that is the secret to tourism these days... And this is why we have to join forces with other areas and regions — so that we can coordinate different kinds of things so they can tour around... This event is perfect for people looking for something to do on a weekend."

Dawson says he hopes that, as in the Quebec experience, people will come to associate the maple festival with the Haliburton Highlands. He would like to see it become an event that people will associate with the Haliburton Highlands and return year after year.

He is also interested in talking with anyone who may wish to get involved in the festival. Last year many of the local artists and artisans opened their studios or had special sales, and he's hoping to branch out from there. "It's quite inclusive," he says. "The only criterion right now is that it has to fit under the maple umbrella. We're hoping to hear from church groups, businesses, service clubs, whomever."

"The possibilities for events," he says, "are endless."

"We want to encourage different aspects of the community. We want to include cultural/historical aspects. We want to look at the industrial aspect, the nutrition, the cooking, the food."

Persons interested in participating in the proposed event can contact Dawson at 286-3202, Louise Berry at 286-3705, or Grace Clement at 457-3754. Information packages will be available.

Tom Dawson, in his maple forest on County Road One. These trees have definite potential to generate tourism for Haliburton County Dawson maintains.

and Easter. Many people come up to the lodges with their families during that time of the year anyway, he says. It would be a family-oriented event. He hopes service clubs and church groups will be able to get involved, hosting meals and activities for children, Anson, Hindon and Minden CouncilNoise by-law unenforceable?

by Jerry Grozelle

Mountain Lake property owners will get no relief from Anson, Hindon and Minden council regarding the noise generated by an aircraft operated on the lake by Day Airways.

The municipality has received requests to implement a noise by-law in an attempt to give lakeshore residents some relief from the noise of the Beaver aircraft taking off from its Mountain Lake base.

Anson, Hindon and Minden's chief building inspector and by-law enforcement officer Doug Schell contacted the municipality's solicitor Doug Christie to get advice regarding a noise by-law.

In his reply, Christie explained that the municipality has the authority to prohibit or regulate certain types of noise.

However, the municipality does not have jurisdiction over aeronautics or shipping and navigation. That jurisdiction falls exclusively within the powers of the federal government.

The local government, therefore has no teeth to enforce a noise by-law in regard to airplanes or watercraft.

Christie explained in his letter that the municipality may pass a by-law which addresses such noises as the ringing of bells, the blowing of horns, shouting, and unusual noises that are likely to disturb inhabitants of the municipality.

Section 178 of the Environmental Protection Act (EPA) authorizes the municipality to pass by-laws prohibiting the emissions of sounds or vibrations; to provide for the licensing of persons, equipment or premises with respect to the emission of sounds or vibrations; to prescribe maximum permissible levels of sound or vibrations; or to prescribe procedures for determining the levels of sounds or vibrations that are emitted.

If the municipality decides to pass a noise by-law,

Christie recommends implementing it under the EPA designation, even though it would require approval of the Minister of Environment and Energy.

"A municipal by-law can adopt one of two approaches to noise control," Christie writes. "The first is the qualitative approach, which prohibits particular noises at certain times or in particular areas. The second is quantitative, and is based upon sound measurements, which requires technical equipment to record decibel levels. For your municipality, it is likely that the qualitative approach would be the best to adopt."

A by-law dealing with such noises as barking dogs, another concern that has been voiced to council, could be passed. But there may be enforcement problems associated with such a by-law as well.

Christie points out that in certain cases, liability may be imposed upon the owner of the property from which the noise emanates. But, Christie cautioned, this would likely only be possible for noises which the owner of the property could control. In some instances, only the person making the noise could be accountable for the infraction.

The real stumbling block for the municipality is that it is not possible, under the Municipal Act, to add unpaid fines to property taxes.

As councillor Grant Plooard aptly pointed out, even if the township issued fines, "they could thumb their noses at us and refuse to pay the fines, anyway."

Another problem regarding enforcement is the personnel to provide 24-hours a day, seven days a week service to handle complaints.

No decision was made, pending consultation with municipal staff and the township's lawyer regarding the enforcement problems.

Anson, Hindon and Minden had a noise by-law in place until recently, but it was rescinded because council found it was unenforceable in court.

Additional charges announcedTrial set for April 24

by Andrew Milne

The Haliburton high school teacher charged with sexual exploitation will go on trial April 24, 1996 in Lindsay.

The man has also been charged with sexual assault, in a separate case.

Frank Wallace, a history teacher at the school, has been charged with five counts of the exploitation offence. The charges all involve the same female victim.

Sexual exploitation is a criminal charge affecting adult persons in positions of trust or authority over a young person between the ages of 14 and 18. The charge covers touching with sexual intent or invitation to the same.

The pre-trial hearing to establish whether and when the case would be tried was held September 12 in Lindsay. All details of the pre-trial proceedings are under publication ban.

The Minden detachment of the OPP first announced the exploitation charges March 27. Subsequent to that, on August 28, the force announced that as a result of further investigations, two more charges, of sexual assault, had been laid against Wallace, as a result of allegations made by a former female student of the high school.

Wallace has been suspended with pay from his teaching duties pending the outcome of the trial.

The bottom line

The finance committee of St. Joseph's Hospital and Health Centre says there isn't enough money to continue the operation of the Minden Hospital and so it has recommended that the facility be turned into a walk-in clinic. The message to the Ministry of Health is clear: if the operation of the hospital, limited as it now is, is to continue, the ministry must provide the funds to sustain it.

The Ministry of Health for its part, has told St. Joseph's Hospital and Health Centre to operate the facilities under its control, within the approved budget.

What we have here is a stand-off between these two health service providers. To the casual observer it could be an amusing study in governmental processes. However, for those caught in the middle, the citizens who look to the Minden hospital for service, this is anything but fun.

The community has been knocked from pillar to post over the past year as it has seen its health services slowly eroded. This latest recommendation is yet another pummeling that leaves people here wondering if anyone outside of the immediate area really cares what happens to the Minden Hospital.

- The Minden Hospital is vital to the citizens of the area. It may be the smallest hospital in the province and great miracles of medical science may not be performed within its walls, but there are many lives which continue today thanks to its presence.

- The hospital is a beacon of security and reassurance that is crucial to the future of the community's growth and economic well-being.

- Since doctors seek a stable environment in which to work, the effort to recruit physicians to this area can only be further undermined by this latest suggestion.

Both the Acting Health Services Board and the Ministry of Health have endorsed a vision which includes the continued provision of emergency services at a Minden location. The same board is in the middle of a process that will help it define the future of health care services for all of Haliburton County. Obviously there is an important role for services on this side of the county in that vision.

In the minds of some bureaucrats and well-intentioned board members there may be some important financial consideration and principles at stake, but for the people of this community there is a different bottom line. It is not one filled with numbers, but with individuals.

We have had enough of this senseless bureaucratic posturing. The community is fed up with being the pawn in these manoeuvres and wants those who control health services resources to bring stability back to the area.

Brave women

Editor:

I just wanted to express my great respect and gratitude to all those very brave women attending the United Nations Women's Conference in China.

It is this type of participation and selfless dedication for benefits to the whole world that results because of brave determined women who accept responsibility for the conditions of reality.

I hope somehow my words can reach them to let them know how much gratitude I feel towards women, just like them.

I do not agree with Hilary Clinton, however. Mandatory abortion and sterilization are obvious choices necessary to enforce a one-child policy. Population choices left to women are out of control.

Gun control opposition continues from Queen's Park

This month has been a busy one in the riding and at the provincial level. Provincially, the Ontario government is sticking to its promise to oppose Bill C-68, the federal government's gun control legislation.

The proposed gun registry is intrusive on responsible gun owners, will not combat the illegal use of firearms, and is a misdirected use of funds to combat crime.

Mandatory sentences for using firearms while committing a crime is one small piece of legislation the Ontario government agrees with, however, we must insist the rights of responsible gun owners be protected. As others have suggested, we feel this Bill should be divided.

When the Senate begins public hearings on the gun control legislation, we will demand that the federal government leave law-abiding gun owners alone and concentrate on making the punishment fit the crimes of real criminals. Bob Runciman, Solicitor General, and I will be attending the hearings.

Starting in October, the government will have a welfare fraud 1-800 hot-line, similar to the three-year-old Metro Toronto hot-line, that is expected to save $10 million this year. People can call to report suspected cases of fraud, a measure that is esti-ated to save Ontario $25 million.

This will ensure people who really need the assistance will have money available - still 10 percent above the national average - and will help put an end to abuses of the system.

Locally, I would like to thank the fair boards in Fenelon Falls, Oakwood and Kinmount for inviting me to take part in their fairs, and the agricultural community for allowing me to enjoy the food and company at the Victoria County Pork Producers BBQ, and try my hand at calf-showing with Agriculture Minister Noble Villeneuve at the Victoria County Cattlemen's annual barbecue.

September promises to be even busier in the riding, with Coboconk and Bobcaygeon fall fairs Sept. 16 and 30. On Sept. 8, the new Minden Municipal office and court building officially opened, and Sept. 16, the Victoria-Haliburton PC Riding Association is hosting a barbecue in Kinmount.

I also had the privilege of being invited to take part in the graduation ceremonies Sept. 9 at Lindsay Collegiate and Vocational Institute.

I look forward to seeing and hearing from you as I continue working on behalf of the people of Victoria-Haliburton. If I can provide you with any assistance, call my Lindsay office at 324-6654 or 1-800-424-2590.

A major case of Large Hair

It doesn't come easy to a BoobTubeophobe like yours truly, but I have a confession to make.

I miss Keith Morrison.

You remember Keith Morrison. Blonde-haired, jut-jawed, blue-eyed talking head who co-hosted the CTV newsmagazine with Valerie Pringle for many a morn.

Keith was a Canadian icon. You could rise any weekday morning, shamle across the living room with your pyjamas drooping, scratching your belly, stifling a massive yawn and there would be Keith, looking like he was just air-dropped out of the centrefold of Gentleman's Quarterly.

Some people liked the way he handled an interview; others didn't. For me, his journalistic skills were irrelevant.

He fascinated me the way a cobra bewitches a ground sparrow. I didn't even hear a word tumbling out of his mouth.

I was watching his Hair.

Keith had a major case of Large Hair. Great ocean breakers of the stuff arching over his brow, sweeping down behind his ears, swirling and roiling around the sides of his head.

He made Elvis look like a marine rookie. He made Fabio look like an up-ended floor mop with a bad case of the manged.

I doubt there was a man this side of Samson who had as serious an outbreak of Large Hair as Keith Morrison.

But it didn't save his job. Last spring Keith and his pompadour were unceremoniously bumped.

By some CTV bureaucrat with a brushcut, I'll bet.

I have a vested interest when it comes to hair; namely, I don't have much of it myself.

Oh, I've got hair on my arms and hair on my chest and hair in all the usual bodily thickets and underbrushy spots.

Except the top.

It's one giant pink runway for mosquitos up there.

Which you might think would make me a Mansbridge fan. Peter Mansbridge is the guy who does on CBC television what Keith Morrison used to do on CTV Television, but Petey's Pate isn't all that far behind mine.

A few years ago, Peter started 'going sparse'. All the King's horses and all the kings men plus every cosmetic magician in the CBC make-up department were not able to arrest the fallout.

Nowadays, a lot of folks tune into the Ten O'clock News just to count the strands.

Mansbridge, to his credit has not fallen back on that lamest of crutches for the hair impaired — the toupee.

He just sits there reading every night — pink and proud.

And why not? It's obvious he has nothing to hide.

He is an inspiration to follically challenged men everywhere. A beacon. A Hero of the High Forehead.

But Keith Morrison? Ah, Keith was the god of Large Hair.

I often wonder where he is now. And whether he can still hold his head up without a neck brace.

On the other hand, a recent news story makes me think maybe Keith got out of the TV news business just in time.

Stanhope Council Notes

by Jerry Grozelle

Tennis player shows support

Stanhope council got a pleasant surprise recently.

A visitor from Germany was so impressed with the Stanhope tennis courts that she sent the municipality a $100 donation to help with the upkeep of the facility.

Marilyn Phillipe was visiting the area this summer and she made use of the facility on several occasions.

Bear attraction

Stanhope's landfill sites have become a tourist attraction. To be more accurate, the bears that frequent the landfill sites are drawing curious wildlife watchers.

"We get more people at our dumps watching bears than at some of our summer events," quipped Stanhope deputy-reeve Eleanor Harrison.

Council members discussed the possibility of having landfill site supervisors on site after hours to keep an eye on the bears and the people who go there to watch them.

Reeve Jock Mavor pointed out that there haven't been any safety concerns -- yet. But he did acknowledge that one of the bears "did appear to be a little more aggressive than the others."

He said that Ministry of Natural Resources would live trap and relocate the aggressive bear if it could be positively identified. Mavor explained that identifying a particular bear would be next to impossible.

"They could end up catching a dozen bears and still not get the right one," he said.

The question of insurance liability was the major concern.

Land trade?

A 53-acre parcel of land adjacent to the back of Stanhope Park has been offered to the municipality for $35,000 by owner Bruce Gibbs. Council agreed that the acreage would be a welcome addition to the park, but as reeve Jock Mavor said, "We don't have $35,000."

The municipality does have some property that has been on the market for some time, without any serious offers.

Mavor suggested that the municipality try to negotiate a trade with Gibbs. He said that Gibbs had been contacted verbally and he had been receptive to the idea of a trade. Township clerk-administrator Gerald Bain has been authorized to investigate the possibility further.

It was suggested that the land would be a good site for a nature trail.

"A trade would be advantageous to both the municipality and Mr. Gibbs," Mavor said.

Bill C-68 opposition

With the exception of councillor Ann Barker, Stanhope council voted to send a resolution to the Senate opposing parts of federal gun control legislation, Bill C-68.

Council was responding to a request from the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters to oppose the parts of Bill C-68 that require universal registration of all firearms and the confiscation of certain firearms which are legally owned by Canadians (or were prior to January 1, 1995).

During discussions, most council members agreed that they should continue to oppose those parts of the bill as they did when it was introduced by Justice Minister Allan Rock earlier this year.

Councillor Barker was the only dissenting vote. "Everybody already knows how I feel," she said. "I just don't like guns."

Symposium on Policing

Linda Burley, chair of the Stanhope Community Policing Association, got the go-ahead to attend a Symposium on Policing in Toronto on October 24 and 25. The estimated cost to the township is $800, which includes registration, accommodation, meals and transportation. Council also agreed to offset lost wages in the amount of $200 for the two days she will miss (included in the $800).

During discussions, Mavor said that much of the symposium would deal with high tech subjects, such as communications, that Stanhope's Community Police

MEN'S HOCKEY

The Minden Men's Hockey Association season is set to get under way tonight with the first of three games starting at 8 p.m.

Junior Redmen lack experience, strong on heart

by Jerry Grozelle

Keeping pace with the visiting I.E. Weldon junior Wildcats, the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Redmen soccer team played a strong game for the first 10 minutes of the season opener. But a goal by the Wildcats shortly after the 10 minute mark unnerved the Redmen.

That Weldon goal was the first of nine in a 9-0 romp over the Redmen.

HHSS junior boys soccer coach Dan LaPierre said that in spite of the lopsided loss, his team didn't lose heart.

The way they started off, I thought this is the team I want three games from now," LaPierre said. "They stayed wide. They controlled the game for the first 10 minutes, then, one goal and they all fell apart."

He said that inexperience played a big role in his team's inability to bounce back from "a devastating blow." He added that a more experienced team would work at getting the goal back and going from there.

"They just never did bounce back," he said. "But, for the first 10 minutes, I was really impressed. They were playing maybe the strongest team in the league. They were getting the ball down in their (Weldon's) end and controlling the play. They looked quite good."

"As soon as Weldon got a goal, it was one goal after another and all of a sudden, Weldon had seven guys parked in front of our net, taking shots at our goalie. The poor guy, I felt really bad for him, but it the strongest players of the game for the Redmen.

Wildcats 9, Redmen 0

THE RUSH IS ON: A Weldon forward leads a rush as a pair of Redmen race to cut him off at the pass during Friday's junior soccer game at the Haliburton High School field. Redmen coach Dan LaPierre says he was impressed with the way his team played the first 10 minutes of the game. He says experience will prevent such lopsided scores in the future.

LaPierre singled out Konan Wendt, whom, he said played a solid game. He also said Jesse Sternberg, who played well out front and goalie Shaun Hughes, who only played half the game in net,

"But I did expect we'd run into difficulty."

He looked at the experience philosophically.

"If you start off losing the first game 9-0, you're bound to see improvement the next game," he said with a chuckle. "If we can put 60 minutes together like we put the first 10 minutes together, we'll have a good team."

LaPierre said that normally, when a team gets down 4- or 5-0 or more, "the heads get down and they're not going to keep playing. That wasn't the case." He said they just didn't play as a team. They tried to do it all individually.

"The heart is there," he said. "As a coach, that's what I'm looking for. If the guys are out there playing hard all the time, you're going to stand a chance later on."

The Redmen will get a chance to redeem themselves this Wednesday when they take on the Falcons in Fenelon Falls.

"All we can do is keep plugging away and see what happens by the end of the season," LaPierre said.

The next home game for the junior Redmen is scheduled for Tuesday, September 26. The LCVI Spartans are expected to provide the competition.

Boys High School soccer

Senior Redmen show promise in spite of 3-0 loss

by Jerry Grozelle

In spite of a 3-0 loss to the I.E. Weldon Wildcats in the opener of the boys High School soccer season, Haliburton Highlands Secondary School senior boys soccer coach Peter Bertelsen said the score wasn't indicative of his team's effort.

(One of the Weldon goals was scored when a Wildcat forward took a pass while he and a teammate were off-side. The situation went unnoticed by the referee and the goal counted.)

"I think we improved considerably between the first and second halves, as a complete team effort," Bertelsen said. "I think we're going to improve greatly over the year."

Bertelsen pointed to Ryan Goodall as the hardest working member of the team throughout the game. Goodall is the most experienced soccer player on the squad. He competes with the Haliburton men's team over the summer.

"He certainly worked hard for the entire game," the coach said. "He's probably the biggest stand-out we had."

Bertelsen is dealing with a majority of new players this season.

"We lost a lot of last year's players to graduation, so we have a lot of first-year seniors playing starting roles this year," he said, adding, "I think they're going to improve a lot over the course of the year. Hopefully, we can still challenge for the league (title), but it's going to be harder than it was last year."

Bertelsen said he will be looking to Goodall as a team leader.

"He already was showing that today," Bertelsen said after the game. "He was helping out the younger guys and giving them a little advice. It's great to have an on-field leader, who can instruct as well as give a solid effort. He's definitely done that and I think he's going to continue to do that all year."

HEADS UP!

Haliburton Redmen and Lindsay's Weldon Wildcats vie for possession of the ball during Friday's senior soccer game in Haliburton. Although the Redmen lost the season opener by a 3-0 margin, they played a strong game. Coach Peter Bertelsen says he saw improvement over the course of the game. He expects his team to be competitive this season.

MORE SPAWNING BED WORK: Members of the Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association, with the help of some volunteers from the Haliburton High School placed about 40 tons of rock on a walleye spawning bed. It was the third spawning bed rehabilitation the Association has organized this year, in co-operation with the Ministry of Natural Resources. This one was at the mouth of the river running out of Head Lake. The project was financed by an MNR Community Fisheries Involvement Program grant.

Minden lawn bowlers compete in annual golf tournament

Cross-country trails linked

by Andrew Milne

A new cross-country trail constructed this summer will link Minden area trails to the network growing outwards from the Haliburton, Maple Lake and Lake Kashagawigamog areas.

Nordic Trail Association member Peter Brogden explains the idea is to make the trail networks in the area more integrated, increasing the opportunities for running coordinated lodge to lodge tours, and to make things a little more interesting for regular skiers in the Minden area.

The new Blotter Creek trail — an extension of the Woodland Trail — links the trail system at Hart Lodge south of Minden to trail systems in Glebe Park and near the Pinestone Inn on Lake Kashagawigamog. It meets up with Pinestone's Olympic Loop trail.

Work crews hired for the job also re-built a shelter on the new trail, near Blotter Creek, making it suitable for skiers' purposes.

Brogden says he hopes to have a grand opening run for the new trail December 13 — going from the trailhead at Hart Lodge to the newly refurbished shelter and back.

Brogden is also enthusiastic about the potential of the cross-country trails for generating tourism throughout the region, and about the unique quality of the Haliburton county area trails, which link communities and lodges throughout the region. He hopes local tourism business people will be able to take advantage of this factor, by running more sophisticated, integrated ski tours of the area.

Says Brogden, "It's a unique opportunity in the province to go from town to town and lodge to lodge on skis... There's nominally a lodge to lodge program now, and it's centralized. But it's a little hectic getting it together, and right now it's a little expensive. We need better signage... It's a complicated business, too. Tour groups only work if the skiers know each other and know each other's skills. Otherwise you get very fast, athletic skiers mixed with people who prefer a more leisurely pace."

The Nordic Trail group had hired five students over the summer to work on the trails, under the provincially funded Environmental Youth Program. Apart from their work on the new trail and the shelter, the group also spent a great deal of time clearing trees from the trails following the severe storm in July.

Andy Lewis, Leonard Dewey, and Jeremy Grady cut away a dead tree on a trail in the Maple Lake region. "It's good, honest work, but the pay's not so great," says Lewis, who is studying landscape design at Fanshawe College. Also among the students hired to work on the trails this summer were Kevin Morissette, and Alana Moulton.

United Church Women host Hyland Crest tea

Monday was Labour Day so there wasn't too much going on.

Ruth and Jack Foster entertained in the Trillium lounge. Tuesday morning Barbara Troceweiz took the Chapel Service. Londa Earle manicured several ladies' nails. At noon lunch was a barbecue at the outdoor area. Tom McAllister did the cooking.

The folks did all kinds of crafts Tuesday afternoon. Some were working on Thanksgiving decorations. Others were thinking about Christmas.

Wednesday morning started with exercising and fun games at fitness. In the afternoon Doris and some residents discussed "life in the fast lane". They reminisced about the past. In the evening Kathleen and Earl provided music on the piano and guitar.

Thursday morning the folks enjoyed fitness once again. It is more fun than strenuous work. In the afternoon the United Church Ladies provided a lovely luncheon for the folks. The residents thank you for the delicious tea party ladies.

Friday morning Mary Wilson read to the folks. Noon lunch was a barbecue for the Special Care Unit, later Les Schell and the Cooper brothers, Earl and Sid provided music for dancing pleasure at Happy Hour. The folks enjoyed snacks and beverages.

Saturday morning Janette Donnelly and her beautiful Dalmatian Rusty strutted around the home, it is remarkable what an animal can do for some old folks. They just love animals and children it seems. In the afternoon Kathleen Owen played the piano for the residents' listening pleasure.

Rev. Burgess delivered the message at Sunday Chapel Service.

We welcome Clair Brooks to our volunteer services.

She is helping at crafts. We would also like to welcome Estella Burch back after several months absence. Estella reads a chapter from a book on Sunday afternoons.

Rachel Fearrey was kind enough to come and have a sing-a-long with the folks in S.C.U. For those interested, Comfort Shoes will be at the home September 19th from 1-3 p.m.

Activities change with the season

The residents of Staanworth Court have put summer behind them and are peering hopefully into a colourful fall season.

Outdoor shuffling is about over and indoor lawn bowling is winding down with play-offs, golfing and extra luncheons. Bill and Isobel O'Brien and Katie Parker have enjoyed the competition and even gained a few prizes. And now the regular senior bowlers have started their games which will take them through the winter months. Card games and bingos have resumed and of course our number one venture — weekly darts! We are waiting to see if there are any improvements before we enter our team in a national event!

Some of our residents haven't been too healthy — Jack Stacey, Joan Anthon, Frank Knight and Harry Cowen. We hope the cooler weather will be agreeable and restore them to good health.

The barbecues are coming to a close and the first of our dinners is upcoming. We need Jack in good health as he always has a 'specially prepared dish' for such events.

We'll close this report with a Word on Words.

I'm careful of the words I say,
To keep them soft and sweet,
I never know from day to day,
Which ones I'll have to eat.

TSW report

The stored volume in the Haliburton Lakes had declined to reach the 20 year normal by September 11. At 52.9%, the lakes have declined rapidly for a third consecutive week, despite the flow cutbacks to near minimums last week.

The Kawarthas have some surplus remaining, but this is diminishing while a flow has been running well below the Ontonabee average for September of about 40m³/s (cubic meters per second). At present the flow is about 33 cm³/s.

Lakes Simcoe and Couchiching are down to only 5 cm above their curve rule after being about 9 cm over it last week.

Not much change is anticipated for the coming week in the watershed.

(This report was issued on Tuesday September 12.)

Mark Johnson, of the Minden Freemason's lodge, explains the history of the organization to the audience at an open house held August 24. The order, Johnson says, probably had its origins in the 15th century, with the guilds which grew among stonemasons involved in building the great cathedrals in Europe. The open house also heard Freemason Derek Rolfe recite one of the order's origin myths (the story of King Solomon's temple) and from a number of other speakers.

Stanhope council says no to Maple Lake access closure

Association doesn't have access to.

"I think it is more suited to urban areas," he said.

Barker indicated that $800 may be better spent on equipment such as two-way radios for the association.

Although there were questions regarding the value of the symposium, it was agreed that the township should offer as much support to the community policing group as possible.

Mavor said he's confident that anything Burley gleaned from the symposium will be adequately communicated to the rest of the association's members.

Council says no to promo ads

Stanhope Township won't be advertising in the Haliburton Chamber of Commerce's promotional publication.

Reeve Jock Mavor said he thinks the Chamber of Commerce is a good organization but he indicated that it is up to the business community to finance it.

"If the businesses of the township don't support the Chamber of Commerce, I don't think the taxpayers, many of whom are on limited income, should be asked to support it," he said.

Chopper fly-in cancelled

In his report on the Stanhope Airport, manager Mike Carey advised council that the helicopter fly-in was moved to another airport.

Carey said that the organizers of the event hadn't called to inform him of the change in venue. It wasn't until the day the event was supposed to be held at the Stanhope Airport that he became aware of the fact they weren't coming.

Carey said that he called the organizer's office when the helicopters failed to show and was told by a secretary that the venue had been moved because the event had "snowballed" to the point where it was felt the Stanhope Airport wouldn't be able to handle it.

Black liquor a toxin?

Trevor Pawson wrote a letter to council protesting the use of black liquor as a dust suppressant on Buckslide Road. Pawson said that toxins were getting into the water because of the latest application of the material.

Mavor said that the supplier of the material assured council that black liquor was "environmentally friendly" if used within recommended guidelines. Mavor stated that black liquor has been approved for the purpose by the Ministry of Environment. He admitted that the application had exceeded what is normally used and that it had been placed in areas that are usually not subject to the application of the material. But, he added that an error had been made and that error won't be repeated.

"If this is a hazardous material, as Mr. Pawson implies, perhaps he has information that the ministry hasn't made us aware of," Mavor said.

Because of the unusually dry summer, the material was used more frequently than it has been in the past.

Lake access won't be closed

A Maple Lake property owner sent a letter to council asking the municipality to put a barricade across the entrance to where anglers are launching boats. The area, which is adjacent to the letter writer's property, is also used as a parking area by ice fishermen.

Council had responded earlier to the same property owner's complaints of cars and trucks leaving unsightly ruts in the parking area when the ground was soft. It had been suggested at the time that the township might pave the area to prevent recurring problems.

Stanhope council members made it clear that they have no intention of closing the area to anglers.

"Maple Lake is not for the use of the residents only," Reeve Mavor stated.

It will be maintained as an area for anglers to launch their boats and park during the ice fishing season.

Councillor Barker pointed out that it is better to have cars parked in that area than have them parking on the roadway.

PROCEEDS TO HELP COMMUNITY PROJECTS

Out to lunch

Now and then, you may have a drink before or during work. But when you're under the influence of alcohol at work, you're not at your best.

The alcohol will slow you down. It can reduce your coordination and performance, leaving you out to lunch for the rest of the day. So follow these tips.

- Tip 1. Separate the occasions when you drink from work time. This will make it easier to pass up a drink before work or a friendly invitation to drink on the job.
- Tip 2. Make the healthier choice at lunch, even if others are drinking. Order dealcoholized or .5% beer. Or choose mineral water, milk or juice.

A spirit of wilderness behind bars

Dr. Bob Brown is one of my eco-heroes. He lives in Tasmania, the island state off the southeastern corner of Australia. Bob is a physician who has spent a lot of time camping and canoeing in Tasmania's famous wilderness areas.

In the 1970s, he became concerned about the Tasmanian government's rush to exploit its natural resources by destructive logging and large dams.

More than 20 years ago, it was proposed that an area encompassing Pedder Lake and the forests and rivers around it should be flooded to generate power. Because of the area's great beauty and its unique hydrology, flora and fauna, people began to object to the dam and became part of what we now call an environmental movement opposed to the ecological and spiritual destructiveness of mindless development.

Pedder Lake was flooded but a movement had been created with Brown as one of its leaders. The movement grew, so Brown abandoned medicine and helped to form what was the world's first Green Party. He was elected to the Tasmanian Parliament as a Green and has been an effective politician of rare courage and integrity.

This year, Brown is running for the national Senate as a Green. But in northern Tasmania a 350,000 hectare area of wilderness called the Tarkine is threatened with development. The state government is building a 50 kilometre road through it at a cost of $3.5 million. However, since the road breaks the state government's own regulations, it "gazetted" a special proclamation absolving it from its own environmental and planning laws. The federal government has a responsibility to intervene and enforce environmental regulation but refuses to get involved, a derogation of duty that Brown labels "inexplicable, indefensible, irresponsible."

Brown decries the lack of media coverage of what is happening in the Tarkine because the average Australian outside of Tasmania is unaware of the place or the issue. To raise public awareness, Brown stood on the road to block it, was arrested and sent to Risdon Prison. From jail, he sent this eloquent statement.

"As police vans carried us back to jail, a wedgetailed eagle stood on the buttongrass, sentinel to the Tarkine's tragic plight. She did not ruffle a feather or show the slightest fear, her head turning almost imperceptibly as she watched our noisy exit from the wild land of tireless tranquillity.

"Jail is an inside-out wilderness. It awaits those who want to peacefully protest against the bulldozers but cannot gazette proclamations ... while the wilderness speaks of freedom and identity, Risdon's barbed wire, guard towers and cement walls shout about subjugation and the irrelevance of the individual."

"I heard the call 'good on yer, Bob. Save the forests!' bellowed from a cellblock across the compound ... and the next day, a big, cheery man ... stuck his hand through the grill and shouted, 'Come over and shake my hand, Bob.' I knew that the spirit of wilderness had no trouble permeating Risdon's walls.

"I am moving well past the equator of my migration between the poles of cradle and grave. As I move on, the sense of timelessness grows ... I enjoyed the features of jail which do match wilderness - no phones, no traffic, no shopping and an early-to-bed, early-to-rise routine. As I paced my little cell at night, my mind hyperactive and out divining what makes the world tick, the irony of jailing greens became clear. We are being locked up because the wilderness is an affront to materialism, as the Earth is turned into a wildernessless prison.

"The goal, the 'best outcome', is the greatest conversion of the world to human productivity, where every acre is targeted for human consumption and accounted for in the warehouses lining the information superhighway. Beyond this goal, materialism dreams of virtual reality ... replacing the Earth, which for so long had us in its grasp ... Environmentalists are locked up so that the Earth may be concreted. One by one, bit by bit, the faster the better.

"I don't want Shakespeare's line to become 'all the world's a concrete cell with all the men and women playing virtual reality.' I don't want this planet's remarkable diversity fading out of memory and grasp of future generations.

"Governments may sit on their hands or pass proclamations. Journalists may report life as the interplay of economic rationalists. Others may simply not care. But Risdon made me more defiant; I saw the eagle's eye. I want the Tarkine wild and free."

You can write Bob Brown at 164 Waterworks Road, Dynnryne, Tasmania, Australia 7005. He suggests people write to the Prime Minister Paul Keating, Parliament House, Canberra, ACT, Australia 2600 to urge him to make Tarkine a World Heritage Site.

Around the County Town

by Jeanne Sears (call 286-1538)

Minden Legion Seniors chartered a bus on Wednesday September 13 with driver Jack Whitnell. We had a safe trip through construction and went on board The Oriole for a harbour cruise. The commentary pointing out interesting places was an hour well spent. Back on the bus and to Town & Country with a great buffet lunch. Three buses had arrived one of which was from Rochester so we chatted to some of the folks. Then we went on to see Forever Plaid which had music most of the crowd remembered. An excellent show with our group's standing appreciation. Back on board the bus with some napping and others chatting, a bit of rain fell before home but we made a stop at a Donut shop in Lindsay and headed for home taking time out to all join in "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" as we neared Minden Legion. Great thanks to Georgina and Harold Parkes and their committee for their excellent planning.

Best wishes to Shirley Adams who celebrated her birthday on September 20.

All good wishes to the following people reportedly on the sick list: Bill Harrison, Archie Walker, John Francis, Garth Windsor, Verne Graham and Jessie Preston.

IN MEMORIAM

BULL - In loving memory of my dear husband, Stuart, who died September 18, 1980 and our son Lorne who died December 31, 1992.

I think of you both in silence
I often speak your names,
All I have are memories
And your pictures in a frame.
My heart still aches with sadness,
My silent tears still flow,
For what it was to lose you both,
No one will ever know.
With tender love and deep regret
We who love you will never forget.
Sadly missed by loving wife Hazel and Mother, Lorraine, Lorna, grandchildren, friends and neighbours.
